Take note of this opportunity to sharpen your skills in working on multi-ethnic teams.

Emotionally Healthy Children

All of us wish for our children to thrive on the field. For children to feel emotionally supported by their parents, they need to:

- Feel they can express their feelings and feel heard and supported
- Feel their parents “have their back”
- Feel that their parents believe they are important
- Feel loved and special
- Feel that their parents will stand by them in difficult times/situations

How do MK's report they feel from their upbringings? Read the full article on recent, helpful studies on missionary children:

Multi-Ethnic teamwork - A Solution or journey?

Why is multiethnic teamwork in God's global mission so difficult? And why is teamwork between expatriates and nationals often fractured in similar ways? We are all Christians, committed to mission, part of the body of Christ—but often deeply divided in the work of the Kingdom. Why?

In this Learning Café we will:

- Deepen our thinking about the complexities of multiethnic teamwork;
- Grow in our awareness of some of our expectations and fears about multiethnic teamwork;
- Broaden our understanding about how our personal and cultural assumptions may be a stumbling block in our journey to follow Christ in global mission in His multiethnic world.
